Route through the Great Parks of the American West

The American West is all about Las Vegas, Salt Lake City and the country's largest and most fascinating National Parks. Get ready to marvel at incredible landscapes and places while experiencing once-in-a-lifetime moments that you'll never forget. The perfect place to kick off your holiday is the ever-dynamic Las Vegas, the city that never sleeps. Its neon lights, its jaw-dropping hotels and its entertainment options will bowl you over, while its roulette wheels will be waiting for you to decide whether to bet on red or black. Another highlight of the American West is Salt Lake City, a model capital that masterfully harmonises modernity with tradition. All this on a fantastic road trip packed that covers some of the roads on the world-famous Route 66 and ends at the country's two most spectacular National Parks. Visiting the Grand Canyon will open the door to superb landscapes, whitewater rafting, hiking and even helicopter flights to experience a magical sunset surrounded by California condors. Admire magnificent starry nights or eternal sunrises in one of the most unique places in the world! Another unforgettable place will be Yellowstone, an authentic wonder of nature where you'll find waterfalls, rapids, bears and bison in an incomparable setting that will forever change your vision of Planet Earth and Mother Nature. Come on, you can't miss it!

Travel details

DAY 1 · CITY OF ORIGIN - LAS VEGAS

Flight departure from the city of origin to Las Vegas. After the necessary arrivals and customs formalities, you can pick up your rental car and start enjoying your holiday. Overnight stay in Las Vegas.

DAY 2 · LAS VEGAS

Depending on the time you arrived yesterday, you were probably able to tick off some things on your Las Vegas must-do list. Whatever the case, you can start off today by heading down The Strip. You'll bump into hundreds of stag dos trying to emulate the stars of "The Hangover" and dozens of people handing out flyers. Take it easy, as the distances are vast and it'll take some time to get through everything you've highlighted on your map. A map that includes the entire world, as walking along this street will take you to the Eiffel Tower, the Statue of Liberty, the canals of Venice and the pyramids of Egypt. You can enter all the hotels you fancy. All the big ones are worth a visit, so spend as long as you want because they're true works of art. Before heading back to the hotel, you can also watch the water show at Bellagio Casino. Litres and litres of water frolicking to the music with a combination of lights and colours that will mesmerise you. Bellagio isn't the only venue for a free show. Some of the big hotels also have one. Once back at yours, try your luck at the casino or on the slot machines.

You'll already have seen that almost everything here is free, but you'll ultimately end up spending more than you had budgeted for. It's normal, don't worry about it. It's difficult to resist the temptations of a city that revolves around money. There are shopping malls and themed shops that are free to enter, but will somehow convince you to buy things and give your credit cards a good outing. What's more, you'll spend so much time in enclosed spaces with artificial daylight that time will simply fly by. You might look at your watch and it's two hours later (or more) than you thought. Take it easy, it's also normal. Before lunch, you can take the typical photo of the sign on the way into the city. It's the must-take photo, but you'll love showing it off when you get home. You can marvel at the sunset from the High Roller Ferris Wheel. It's huge and will let you observe the city from above. Even if you're not a fan of attractions like this, we wholeheartedly recommend it. If you're an adrenaline junkie, make sure you go on the roller coaster at the New York-New York Hotel. When the sun starts to fade, make your way over to Fremont Street. Dotted with the odd decadent casino, its authentic feel will captivate you. As you'll know your Las Vegas dates in advance, we recommend checking out which shows will be on during your time in the city. World-famous music artists or major performing companies such as "Cirque du Soleil" have residencies here. If you look in advance, you might get significant discounts on ticket prices. Good news if you're thinking about saying 'I Do' soon. You can get married while dressed as Marilyn or Elvis at any time of the day. You can say your vows whenever you want, but (unfortunately, or fortunately) they have no legal standing.

Overnight stay in Las Vegas.

DAY 3 · LAS VEGAS - WILLIAMS

Take advantage of the morning to see anything you missed yesterday and then set off for Williams after some lunch. Three hundred fifty kilometres lie ahead, which should take 3½ hours on the 93 and then turning onto the 40 in Kingman. But you might take a bit longer if you decide to stop off at the highly-recommended Lake Mead and Kingman. The lake straddles the Nevada-Arizona border and offers activities such as jet skiing or even scuba diving. But if you fancy something more chilled out, you can simply wander along its shore admiring what humans are capable of building because yes, this is an artificial lake. It was created as a reservoir to supply the area with water and has become one of the top tourist attractions in the country. After the lake, head down the 93 and you'll get to Kingman, a genuine oasis in the Mojave Desert. This is the heart of the "Route 66", which is why you'll bump into lots of fellow adventurers setting out on the most famous of American road trips. You're less than 170 kilometres from your goal, so one last push and you'll be there. If you fancy, you can stop off in Seligman, take the typical photo of the huge American flag and soak up the vibrant atmosphere of one of the most delightful towns on the entire West Coast. Then, back on the road. Welcome to Williams, where you'll find all kinds of Route 66 souvenirs, which keep this town of just over 3,000 inhabitants in business. Overnight stay in Williams.

DAY 4 · WILLIAMS - GRAND CANYON

You'll appreciate yesterday's efforts, because you're now very close to the Grand Canyon. Get ready to feel at one with nature, marvel at its sheer beauty and feel like a mere speck of dust in the universe. Everything is so mind-blowing that at times it can even overwhelm you. But trigger all your senses and savour your surroundings. By definition, a "canyon" results from the weathering and erosion of the land caused by a river over thousands of years. Here, that definition falls short. The Colorado River has created a true work of art by moulding the land like a potter who creates a sculpture for public enjoyment. Head to Grand Canyon Village and hop from viewpoint to viewpoint. In fact, you can leave your car parked in the Visitor Center and get carried away, now literally, on one of the free buses that run through the most interesting places in the area. You might not enjoy the freedom of your own vehicle, but you will be able to unwind and know for sure that you're not missing out on anything, especially since there are places that are only open to these buses. (Note: Admission not included). However, this isn't the only way to visit the Grand Canyon. More and more people are choosing to take a helicopter tour to admire this miracle of nature in all its glory. Another option is to hike along some of the signposted trails. That said, find out the average duration of the hikes as they tend to be designed for more than one day. To start rounding off the day, nothing better than admiring the sunset to the west and enjoying a true feast for the eyes. Think that you're experiencing once-in-a-lifetime moments and witnessing one of the world's very best sunsets. But don't think that the day ends here. As you'll be sleeping in the Grand Canyon tonight, you'll have the privilege (weather permitting) to gaze at a starry sky unlike one you'll have ever seen before. Light pollution is zero and you'll see stars, constellations and everything else the skies may cherish. Overnight stay in the Grand Canyon.

DAY 5 · GRAND CANYON - PAGE

If you love sunrises, get up early to marvel at the world's best. Watching the sun rise in the Grand Canyon is a sight you'll never forget. After adding this to your life experiences, you can go on. You can hike along some of the trails that we mentioned yesterday or take part in some adventure sports. The most spectacular, without a shadow of doubt, is rafting. Hurtling down the rapids on a whitewater raft is pure adrenaline and another way of exploring the secrets of the Grand Canyon. Another fascinating option is to head up to the Grand Canyon Skywalk, a glass walkway built over the Colorado River that will literally let you walk in the sky and look inside the canyon from above.

The only thing is that it will take four hours to get there and five to get back. The final option for today is a visit to North Rim, the northernmost part of the Grand Canyon. Bear in mind, though, that it's also the most rugged part and often closed in the winter months due to snowfall. If you do go here, you'll be heading in the right direction for tonight's overnight stop, so you'll avoid hours and hours of driving later on. As soon as you get to Jacob Lake, head in the direction of Marble Canyon, cross the Colorado River and in no time you'll reach Page. Of course, if you're doing well with time, make sure you visit Horseshoe Bend, another wonder of nature en route and just ten minutes' away from the city. Page is a city used as a base camp to visit the surrounding canyons. A weird but wonderful attraction is Lake Powell, a reservoir just outside Page and which helps generate electricity for the area.

Overnight stay in Page.

DAY 6 · PAGE - MONUMENT VALLEY - EDGE OF THE CEDAR STATE PARK - MOAB

Today is a major day on the road, but you won't get bored at any time whatsoever. There are 430 kilometres between both locations and plenty of things to see along the way. So, have a hearty breakfast, fill up the tank and hit the road! Remember that distances here are vast, and you should always keep an eye on the petrol gauge. There are petrol stations even in the smallest of towns, but since Murphy's Law is also in force in the United States, you'll suddenly need to fill up when you can't find one. So, make sure you refuel whenever you can. You'll leave Page on the 98, connecting later with the 160 and then with the 163 until you reach Oljato-Monument Valley, over the border of Utah. You're now in the heart of the Navajo Indian Reservation, where their descendants still live, and it will be strangely familiar even though you've never been here before. Don't worry, you're not losing the plot. It's all a product of the Western film genre. This was the setting for hundreds of legendary battles between Cowboys and Indians. There's a demanding day on the road ahead, so you should choose whether to do a tour with a Navajo guide or simply stop off and admire the views en route. You'll also recognise this area from "Thelma & Louise" and from when "Forrest Gump" starts his epic run. If you're a film buff, don't miss "John Ford's Point", a tribute to John Ford and his westerns. Half an hour away, you can stop at the Mexican Hat, a gigantic stone perched precariously on a mound, which gives it the look of a Mexican sombrero. Once on the 191, you can stop off at Bluff Fort, the replica of one of the most famous forts in the Wild West. You can dress up in pioneer clothing, walk through barracks and experience how it felt to be one of the American soldiers who lived here. Ochenta kilometres from here is Edge of the Cedars State Park, a paradise for lovers of archaeology and history. Here lie the remains of an ancient Anasazi village, where you can head back 1,000 years in time just by going down a staircase. You can admire a pottery exhibition and take part in some of the workshops held daily. It's a weird but wonderful experience. By now, you'll be over halfway through the drive, which will have been made even more enjoyable thanks to the stop-offs. That's why we're going to suggest a couple more to make the journey to Moab seem even shorter. The first is Wilson Arch, a spectacular sandstone arch with a span of 28 metres and height of 15 metres. You can pull over and walk under it, take some photos and enjoy this natural phenomenon because it is very easy to get there. There's parking close by and walk to it. But this isn't nature's only gif in these parts. Just a few kilometres before reaching Moab, you'll come across a very unique sign. It screams out "Hole 'N the Rock" <http://theholeintherock.com/> in huge letters. You'll see it straight away, no worries about that. And when you've finished admiring this roadside attraction, complete the drive to Moab, go out for dinner and a gentle stroll, and then enjoy a well-deserved rest. Overnight stay in Moab.

DAY 7 · MOAB - ARCHES NATIONAL PARK AND SURROUNDINGS

As you'll have noticed yesterday, Moab is a small town that welcomes thousands of tourists a year who take advantage of its privileged location to visit the surroundings. So, use today to take advantage of its location and discover the nearby wonders. The entrance to Arches National Park is just ten minutes from Moab, and you'll love it if you liked Wilson Arch and Hole 'N the Rock. Here you'll find the greatest concentration of this type of arches in the whole world. But there's much more. You'll also see countless formations with original shapes, such as Delicate Arch, Balance Rock or Landscape Arch, which measures more than 85 metres in length. Delicate Arch is the symbol of the state of Utah; in fact, it features on all the licence plates of cars registered here. Getting to see it up close will involve a three-hour hike there and back, but we promise that it's well worth the walk. In fact, both trekking and sedentary enthusiasts will be on one of the best hiking trails in the United States. You'll think that you've left Planet Earth and travelled into space and time to reach Phobos or Deimos, the two moons of Mars. The terrain is reddish and gravelly, having suffered from wind erosion for millennia. It's a paradise for hikers and photography lovers. For as far as you can see, swathes of reddish rock span out, changing tones according to the position of the sun. There are magical snapshots simply waiting to be captured by your camera. Thirty minutes away from here is Canyonlands National Park. As soon as you enter, the Visitor Centre will reward you with the very best viewpoint to marvel at the park. It's mind-blowing! Island in the Sky is pure magic. From here, you can admire the work of art that the Colorado River and the Green River have pitched out over the centuries. White water rafting is also a must-do in this area, with different levels of difficulty available. It's pure adrenaline, take our word for it. Another great option is a 4x4 trip over incredible terrains. It's a unique experience. If you're a lover of mountain biking, then you're also in luck. Cyclists from all over the world head up to the Moab area to enjoy dizzying descents and impressive itineraries. If after all this you still have time or energy, note down these names: Dead Horse Point State Park, a nature park located at the gates of Canyonlands National Park; or the ghost town of Cisco, accessible via the 128. Overnight stay in Moab.

● DAY 8 · MOAB - SALT LAKE CITY

There are 376 kilometres of road ahead today, which will pass by quickly as you'll be driving along the 6, a two-lane road that adds a third if traffic increases. It's not the most beautiful way to get to your destination, but it's definitely the fastest. Make as few stops as possible to enjoy more time in the city, but if you're not keen on doing the whole journey at once, take note of these names: Green River, Wellington, Helper and Spanish Fork. As soon as you set foot in Salt Lake City, you'll see that it is pure harmony. It is a delectable, respectful and very pleasant city. You can start off by visiting Temple Square, the heart of the city. It owes its name to one of the most important Mormon temples in the capital of Utah. But it offers many more options. You can also visit the Off Broadway Theatre, a venue where you can see some of the most interesting shows in the country. If you're travelling with children, today will be a great day for them. Visits to the Zoo, the Clark Planetarium or the Children's Museum will enchant them. The Utah Museum of Fine Arts is also an attractive option, although somewhat more original is a visit to the FamilySearch Center, where you can trace your roots and map out your family tree. Yup, you heard right, you can search for your ancestors from a Utah building! After this experience, a nice stroll will seem like a good idea. We suggest Gilgal Sculpture Garden (with its open-air sculptures), Red Butte Garden or Liberty Park, which houses a fascinating aviary. If it's a hot summer's day, grab your swimwear and a towel and head down to Great Salt Lake, where you can float in the salty waters or even take a boat out from its marina. Another interesting area of the city is the Olympic Park, which hosted the Winter Olympics in 2002. If you're a sports lover, though, you'll know that Utah is a powerhouse in American sports. Its top teams are the Utah Jazz in basketball, the Utah Grizzlies in ice hockey and the Salt Lake Bees in baseball. Any game is an amazing experience, so if your time in the city coincides with one, make sure you get tickets and soak up the great atmosphere. To end the evening off, there's no better place than Downtown. You'll find an array of bars and restaurants, as well as a fantastic ambience. Look for the City Creek Center and follow the crowds. And get your camera charged up! Overnight stay in Salt Lake City.

● DAY 9 · SALT LAKE CITY - WEST YELLOWSTONE

You'll cross several states today to reach West Yellowstone, leaving behind Utah, Idaho and also Montana. In fact, you'll end the day in Wyoming. Four different states, which might sound like a lot, but we promise that it'll be worth the effort. Yellowstone National Park is a world-renowned wonder of nature, so being able to spend a few days here is well worth the road travelled. There are several ways to get there, but we recommend taking the 15 from Salt Lake City to Idaho Falls and then the 20 (four lanes up to St. Anthony) over to West Yellowstone, the western entrance. The best way to see Yellowstone is by doing a figure of eight. You can explore the top loop on one day and the bottom loop on another. This will save time on the road. You have to realise that the Park is enormous. Just imagine! It covers more than 8,000 square kilometres. (Note: between May and October, you can drive through the park with no restrictions. However, it's not possible for the rest of the year). What you'll see here is the greatest concentration of geysers in the world and an amazingly rich flora and fauna. You'll come across gigantic forests populated by bison, bears, wolves, moose, pumas, elks, lynxes... and a huge list of many other animals roaming around. It's very common to see the odd bison sauntering across the road, so be careful and respectful at the same time, so take your time and remember that they were here first, be patient and live the moment. But you're still in Salt Lake City and to get there you have almost five hours ahead, not counting the stops. Don't worry, because the scenery along the route is wonderful and you can pull over wherever you want. Our proposal is to make a stop in Brigham City and Malad City, drive a few kilometres over to Lava Hot Springs and then have lunch in Pocatello. Onward then to Idaho Falls and visit Rexburg before arriving in West Yellowstone. Rest assured that it will be less taxing than it seems, and that the reward for the next few days will be exceptional. Overnight stay in West Yellowstone.

● DAY 10 · WEST YELLOWSTONE - YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK - WEST YELLOWSTONE

As we mentioned yesterday, the roads that run through the Park form a figure of eight. You can do our suggested itinerary today or swap it for tomorrow's. It is indifferent. Anyway, we suggest setting off early from West Yellowstone in the direction of Madison and, even though it looks interesting, not spending too much time there, as what lies ahead is simply spectacular. The first stop could be Lower Geyser Basin, home to some of the most incredible geysers, pools and springs in the area.

You'll be hypnotised by the water shooting out from the earth, the palette of ochre and yellowish colours framing the pools, or the bubbles of boiling water emerging as if by magic.

If somehow you don't fall under its spell, head over to Grand Prismatic, one of the most amazing places in the entire Yellowstone National Park. It's the largest spring in the whole park and will bowl you over with a kaleidoscope of colours that you'll be hard pushed to see anywhere else in the world. You'll want to spend hours admiring what's before your eyes. It's part of the Midway Geyser Basin, which also contains the Excelsior Geyser, another masterpiece of nature. Continuing on today's route, the next stop is Riverside Geyser, a spectacular water column that shoots out of the earth with superhuman strength. You can see it perfectly from the other shore. When you've finished, you can pop over to Upper Geyser Basin, where an exuberant mix of colours will leave you speechless.

Each geyser is different from the previous one. They're all so unique therefore you shouldn't overlook any of them! Finally, before returning to the hotel, you can stop at Old Faithful, perhaps the most impressive geyser in the entire park.

We recommend recording a video so that you can watch it over and over again and be able to always remember it. It's mind-blowing!

After so much excitement, you can head back to the hotel and unwind, as another unforgettable day awaits you tomorrow.

Overnight stay in West Yellowstone.

DAY 11 · WEST YELLOWSTONE - YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK - WEST YELLOWSTONE

Yesterday we ventured into the bottom part of the figure of eight, so today we'll explore the top part. You'll be engulfed by the same feelings as yesterday at each stop, with your jaw dropping throughout the day. And make sure you have enough space on your camera or on your phone, as the day ahead will be unparalleled. Like yesterday, you'll start your route in Madison, but today heading north instead of south. Norris Geyser Basin is the first stop. This is the hottest thermal area in all of Yellowstone, so don't get too close! You'll be confronted by an amalgam of ochres, greens and blues that look like something out of an animated film. So much so that you won't believe it's all real. But it is, just like your next destination: Roaring Mountain. You can park the car right in front and head up to where you think you'll get the best views of the area. There tend to be bears here, so take the appropriate precautions if you venture into the woods. Equally idyllic is the next stop, the picture-postcard Indian Creek. If you're travelling in spring, the scenery will be exquisite, with lush green meadows and wild animals roaming around their habitat. Mammoth Hot Springs will be the northernmost point you'll visit in the National Park and it boasts a beauty hard to put into words. There are waterfalls and cascades in an unparalleled setting. This is a magical place that will instantly captivate you. You and your camera!

A great hiking option is the Beaver Ponds Loop Trail, where the vegetation changes from pine trees to more verdant trees and wilder flowers. Another excursion could be up to Bunsen Peak, where you'll marvel at the spectacular views. From here you can reach Osprey Falls, another hidden gem in this fantastic park.

Heading east, you'll now skirt the upper part of the figure of eight and ultimately arrive at Tower Roosevelt, a spectacular waterfall soaring over forty metres high.

Here, and in the neighbouring Tower Junction, there's usually a major concentration of animals. Herds of bison, gangs of elk and the odd bear may be waiting to welcome you to the area.

You can also head over to Lamar Valley, a vast plain full of wild animals. Besides the aforementioned bison, you'll see elk, wolves, coyotes and/or purely American antelopes.

Now heading south, you'll first come across Tower Fall, similar to the Tower Junction waterfall, and then Canyon Village, a pocket-sized Grand Canyon that will astound you. Nearby are the Lower and Upper Falls, two epic waterfalls nearing ninety metres in height and with an amazing flow of water in the rainy season.

You'll now be very close to the entrance to Norris Canyon Road, which will take you to Grand Loop Road and then West Yellowstone.

If you have plenty of time, pop over to Fishing Bridge, a little further south, at the edge of Yellowstone Lake. This is only possible in spring, summer and autumn. The trails remain closed in winter.

Overnight stay in West Yellowstone.

DAY 12 · WEST YELLOWSTONE - GRAND TETON NATIONAL PARK - ROCK SPRINGS

Saying goodbye to Yellowstone National Park will be tough because it's a truly wonderful place, but you still have amazing places to discover on this American road trip. Today's drive will take you to Rock Springs after almost 500 kilometres on the road. There are two options for getting there; either leave West Yellowstone and go down the 20 and the 33 to Jackson, or take advantage of another morning in Yellowstone. The itinerary in the Park will also take you down to Jackson, but will take longer as you'll stop off at several wonders of nature. If you choose the second option, you can head over to West Thumb, a hot spring with turquoise waters. A spectacle of nature par excellence. It's very different from Colter Bay Village, as it's a navigable lake in an enviable setting. You'll love walking around here.

Venturing into the Grand Teton National Park may seem a little ambitious considering that you have to get to Rock Springs today, but if you sacrifice any of the previous stops, you could definitely consider it. Moose is highly recommended if you still haven't come across gangs of elk. It's a fascinating experience and your last stop in the park. The next one will be in Jackson, the southern exit from Yellowstone, so you'll have to bid farewell to this jewel of nature. Ahead are some 300 kilometres, and although you can stop wherever you want, we definitely recommend Pinedale. You can fill up here, visit the Museum of the Mountain Man, admire Fremont Lake, and then continue to Rock Springs. It doesn't have too many attractions, as it's basically a stopover point en route to Denver, but do visit the Museum of Natural History if you get the chance. It boasts a collection of fossils and dinosaur skeletons that's quite unusual for a relatively remote place. Overnight stay in Rock Springs.

● DAY 13 · ROCK SPRINGS - DENVER

The day ahead presents a wide variety of options, as you can head straight to Denver and spend a few hours exploring the city if your flight tomorrow won't allow this. If this is the case, you'll drive most of the time along the 80 to link with the 287 and then the 25 to end your 550-kilometre journey. Another option is turn off on to the 789 in Creston. The goal is twofold: the Medicine Bow-Routt National Forest and the Arapaho & Roosevelt National Forests and Pawnee National Grassland. The Medicine Bow-Routt National Forest is a nature reserve of approximately 12,000 square kilometres that comes to life in springtime and boasts unique landscapes. Meanwhile, the smaller Arapaho & Roosevelt National Forests and Pawnee National Grassland are the stunning home to thousands of animals living untouched by human influence. This is why they're great places to see some of the most typical species of northern Colorado. Another option is to leave Rock Springs on the 80 and, after Fort Steel, take the 130 to the Rocky Mountain National Park and head eastwards across the Arapaho & Roosevelt National Forests and Pawnee National Grassland before arriving in Denver. Whatever your choice, this will be an intense and thrilling day. Overnight stay in Denver.

● DAY 14 · DENVER - CITY OF ORIGIN

Arrival at the airport with enough time to drop off your rental car and flight back to the city of origin.

Night on board.

Important remarks

- Tips in US are a common practice.

- Generally in US the accommodation in the triple rooms have two double beds or one double and one single bed and the quadruple accommodation has two double beds.

- Driving in the USA: 1. Overtaking on the right is not only legal but everyone does it. And the sooner you get used to roads with more than five lanes, the better. 2. It is legal (and mandatory) to turn right on a red light when there is a signal to do so. 3. With regard to parking, make sure you check when you can park on the street and never park in front of a fire hydrant (even though there are no signs prohibiting it). If there are lines painted on the road to mark out parking spaces, leave the car right in the middle of them, however huge the gap may seem. Be especially careful in the centre of big cities and don't let the parking meter go over by even one minute (check before paying because there are days of the week or certain times when you don't have to pay). 4. Beware of tolls. They will be indicated with the words toll or turnpike and don't usually have a barrier, so you can drive through them without realising and then receive a fine a few weeks later. Don't drive in FasTrak Only lanes and make sure you have some cash on you, as some tolls are cash-only. 5. Unless you want a ticket and a stern chat from a Highway Patrol Officer, it's best not to drive more than five or ten miles above the maximum speed allowed for the road. If the police end up stopping you, keep your hands on the steering wheel and in sight at all times and don't even think about trying to be funny. 6. We recommend signing up to roadside assistance services and a GPS when you hire a car.

- Consult the entry restrictions and additional requirements for people who have previously traveled to destinations such as Cuba, Iran, Iraq, Yemen, Syria, etc.
- Hotels may charge a Resort Fee charge that must be paid directly at the destination. The amount can vary between approximately $15 and $65 per room per night. This charge is indicative and may be modified depending on the establishment's policy.
- Check-in time at the hotel on the day of arrival depends on each establishment, but in no case will it be before 3:00 p.m., unless otherwise indicated.
- Almost all National Parks have an information centre for visitors with very friendly and welcoming rangers, always willing to do everything possible for tourists to enjoy their visit. Most of the parks have routes, hiking trails, parking spaces, toilets, kiosks, restaurants, guided tours, donkey or horse tours and educational centres. The National Park Service runs a great website with excellent information about its parks: www.nps.gov. We recommend buying an Annual Pass (cost $80) if you plan to visit two or more national parks (entrance to a national park with a car usually costs about $35). This pass is valid for one year from the date of purchase. At parks that charge a fee per vehicle, the pass covers the holder and the passengers in a private vehicle. At parks that charge fees per person, the pass covers the holder and three more passengers (children under sixteen have free admission). For further information about National Park Passes, visit www.nps.gov/fees_passes.htm. You can buy the pass at the entrance to many parks (list here: <https://store.usgs.gov/s3fs-public/PassIssuanceList.pdf>) or online (<https://store.usgs.gov/pass>). Within the typical west coast route, there are several iconic must-visit parks that aren't included in this pass, such as Antelope Canyon and Monument Valley, so you have to pay for admission separately.
- The proposed excursions and tours for each day are purely suggestions, as you can tailor the trip to suit your times, tastes and needs.
- A credit card is considered a guarantee, so sometimes you will need one for check-in at hotels.
- Hotels usually have cots available. Otherwise, babies will have to share a bed with an adult.
- To pick up your rental car, you'll need a credit (not debit) card in the name of the person who made the booking, who must also be the named driver of the vehicle.
- Consult the necessary documentation to enter the destinations visited and for transit in the countries where air stopovers are made.
- You must give notice that you are going to cross the border while collecting the vehicle. Authorisation may be required to drive through certain countries or areas/states (as is the case in the US and Canada). Depending on the conditions set out in the rental contract and the company hired, you might be charged a surcharge payable at the destination office.
